

CECIA + TAGORE

DEAR BIRTHMOTHER,

We are grateful to have this opportunity to share our story with you, and for you to consider us as potential parents of the child you are carrying.

The experience you are having must be a difficult one emotionally, and perhaps physically. We wish you strength, resilience and good health during your pregnancy. We cannot know all that you are going through, but want you to know that we care for you and wish to understand your story in turn.

We have been wanting to have a child for a while. Cecia has known since she was a teenager that she wanted to adopt a child one day. We were hoping to have a biological child as well as an adopted, but the former has not happened and so we are happily continuing with our long standing vision to adopt. We both love children, and in fact the child-like qualities in everyone.

We met seven years ago this summer, in a chance encounter walking down the sidewalk in the town where we both live! We developed a friendship and soon after realized that we had a deep connection and wanted to be together, marrying two years later.

There are many things we have in common, including love of design, nature, animals, books and ideas, dancing, canoeing, good food and good friendships.

We enjoy traveling abroad and appreciate other cultures. Our trips include going to museums, old churches, historic places and natural parks.

On weekends we love to be at home having quiet days together, sharing dinner, watching movies, doing crafts, and occasionally taking trips nearby to the woods or lakes.

Cecia

Cecia is a naturally nurturing woman. She tends caringly to family, friends, plants, and animals all alike. She chose a career as an architect focusing on building healthy environments, first for schools and other types of buildings, and now for larger communities as a government official.

Born overseas, she's developed a sensitivity to the uniqueness in everyone. In her spare time, Cecia loves to cook, spend time gardening, singing, reading and writing, and doing crafts or volunteer work.

Tagore

Tagore has a sweet and kind nature. He is an architect and builder by trade, and also an exceptional woodworker. He is creative, lively, and musical (plays guitar). Mostly he values making heartfelt connections with people - friendships are like gold to him. Tagore enjoys spending his spare time making things or being with loved ones. Having worked in pre-schools as a young adult, he has natural affinity for children.

Our Family and Friends

We were both born in the Mediterranean though grew up in this country since the age of 5. We have extended family very close to us and often gather for holidays, parties, and meals. Food is a big part of our lives! For both family and friends, we love hosting dinner parties!

Our Family and Friends

We live in an urban neighborhood next to Boston. It is very diverse in the types of people and opportunities it offers. We can walk to a lot of interesting places, and even have a small park on our street.

The year after we married we bought a home in this town and renovated it together.

It was a challenging undertaking but now we are so pleased to have a bright, cheerful, and stable place to call home. We continue to do small projects around the house and yard to make it ever more beautiful.

We love the area in which we live and everything it offers. We have many good friends close by, and a nice community through our church as well. In fact we have several friends having children this year so we are excited to all be raising children together.

Our adorable kitties

We have three cats. Bobo, the black cat, is the eldest at two years old - he is adventurous and loves to roam outdoors. Sisters Numi & Elsie, almost one years old, are very sweet and love to be home.

We want to give our child a meaningful and happy life where he or she feels unconditionally loved and supported.

We thank you for taking the time to look at our profile and for considering us as parents.

Sincerely,
Cecia and Tagore
